

Procedure application PhD candidates abroad

Summary

All ESDiT funded PhD candidates are strongly encouraged to spend a semester abroad. We consider this an invaluable way for candidates to broaden their horizons by becoming familiar with other research performing organizations, gaining complementary expertise through training and collaboration, gaining access to empirical data for data collection, gaining exposure to different research cultures and national cultures and extending their network. Semesters abroad can be spent at multiple locations, and can be spent at universities, research institutes, companies, governmental organizations, and other locations and organizations relevant to one's research. Please note that there already is an extended network of collaborating research organizations listed in the ESDiT proposal, which could be considered as possible locations for stays abroad.

ESDiT has additional funds reserved for an extended research stay abroad of max. 10K.
